The Project SharEU

Shared Values and Global Challenges: Towards a New Renaissance of EU

This project is directed to consolidate and further integrate the activity of teaching and research in the field of EU studies at the University of Florence (UNIF). It is devoted to the study of the impact of global challenges on the core values of the EU. Solidarity among Europeans becomes a crucial issue for the future of the EU, while challenges in the economic, social and political context impose pressures on mechanisms of social cohesion, such as reciprocity, inclusion, and institutional trust. The aim of this project is of contributing to a new Renaissance for Europe. The reference to Renaissance - literally “renovate” - the period in European civilization generally regarded as beginning in Florence - reflects the purpose of a reliance of humanistic and civic values among Europeans and a renewed interest for the EU among young generations, civil society, common citizens and professionals, inside and outside the European host cities.

The topic will be addressed through subthemes closely related: migration, citizenship, social and human rights, sustainable development and environment, international cooperation, political participation, identities and narratives, multiculturalism and multilingualism. If the literature deals with each of these themes separately, the aim here is to understand them in their interrelations and by adopting a truly interdisciplinary (i.e. history, economics, political science, sociology, Humanities and linguistics) perspective.

This research is particularly important and timely for several reasons. In the context of European societies pluralism, non-discrimination, tolerance, justice, solidarity, and equality between women and men still prevail but they are seriously undermined by global challenges, e.g. terrorist attacks, refugees crisis, financial and economic crisis, unemployment, growing inequalities.

The general aim of the project is to show how the EU’s fundamental values are put into practice through concrete actions at European, national, regional and local levels, and how they can contribute to face global challenges successfully. The activities foreseen include research, teaching and the organisation of several events (conferences, seminars, initiatives for citizens, activities in schools – link), outputs (publications, website, “SharEU” radio broadcast – link). Given the high importance of the theme of research, an impact in the international academic community and in the local civil society is envisaged.

The members of the Scientific Committee are professors with diverse disciplinary backgrounds belonging to different EU and extra-EU universities and they ensure a detailed analysis of the topic.

The results of the project can be followed here.

The activities foreseen in the three years include research, teaching and the organization of the following events:

1) An Union of shared values in practice: Nine open workshops
2) Nine Open Lectures
3) A joint Model EU Simulation (MEU)
4) A Conference on Cities for a European Renaissance;
5) The EU and Global Challenges: 28 Ideas from the Erasmus Generation;
6) Conference on The EU, Member States and the Social Dimension of Globalization- Looking into EU External Policies;
7) Conference on Values, solidarity and citizenship. Toward a new Renaissance in Europe.
Subjective Europeanization is defined as Europe's growing role in the cognitive, affective and normative perception and orientation of Europeans.

According to you, what makes subjective Europeanization possible? What processes, events or policies facilitate the development of a European identity?

Imagine that you are a member of the European Commission and you must implement a program to increase trust in the EU: What plan/measure would you propose?

Is European solidarity possible?

The optimists:

Solidarity as:
- a posture of transcendence towards the vulnerability of others;
- a social relationship between a benefactor, someone who provides (or commits providing) a certain service of aid and the recipient of
- relationships among strangers.

A Manifesto for Europe

IL Presidente del Parlamento europeo David Sassoli riceve dalla giornalista parlamentare Victoria Martín de la Torre «A Manifesto for Europe» un documento redatto da alcuni studenti, sotto la guida di Francesca Ditifeci nell’ambito del progetto «SharEU - Shared Values and Global Challenges» 2016-19, coordinato da Laura Leonardi, Centro di Eccellenza Jean Monnet dell’Università di Firenze.
Impatto diretto e indiretto del progetto SharEU

➢ Notevole impatto diretto, attraverso l'implementazione delle attività e degli eventi inclusi nel progetto e anche attraverso una serie di effetti moltiplicatori che hanno promosso altre iniziative rilevanti (https://www.shareu.unifi.it/ls-16-other-activities.html).

➢ Una serie di lezioni aperte e di workshop sui valori dell'UE e sulle sfide globali è stata replicata ed è ora incorporata nei programmi di insegnamento dell'UNIFI al di là del progetto.

➢ Ha rafforzato il dibattito accademico tra studiosi e studenti. Ha inoltre stimolato l'eccellenza nell'insegnamento, nella ricerca e nella riflessione sugli studi sull'integrazione europea. Un maggior numero di docenti è stato stimolato e ha ottenuto moduli e cattedre Jean Monnet (https://www.unifi.it/p7361.html#jeanmonnet) presso l'Università di Firenze.

➢ Dialogo con la società civile - a livello locale – che è stata invitata a partecipare a iniziative specifiche come conferenze, lezioni aperte, workshop, e a dibattere sul tema trattato dal progetto. Coinvolgimento attraverso la comunicazione digitale e radiofonica. Ha aumentato la consapevolezza generale dei cittadini sulle questioni relative all'UE.
GRAZIE!
