REQUIRED LANGUAGE SKILLS

English proficiency is expected and can be demonstrated through any combination of the following methods: TOEFL of 90+, IELTS of 6.5+, proof of at least one year of study in an undergraduate program where English is the medium of instruction

APPLICATION DEADLINES

May 1, for Fall semester (August – December);

October, for Spring semester (January – May)

INSURANCE

Exchange students are strongly encouraged to purchase comprehensive health insurance while they are in Syracuse. Information about available plans and options can be found online:

<http://international.syr.edu/new-students/health-insurance/index.html>

HOUSING

The University does not provide student housing for Law or Graduate students. The College of Law will assist students in finding affordable, convenient, safe housing in/around the residential neighborhood that surrounds the campus. A “housing guide” will be shared with incoming exchange students

ATTENDANCE FEES

While tuition is waived under the nature of this reciprocal exchange partnership, mandatory university fees must be collected in the amount of: $1,098. (Health Fee: $368, Law Activity Fee: $90, and Law Resource Fee: $640)

VISA

All exchange students are expected to obtain an F1 student visa which will enable them to study at the College during the semester. Upon admission to the semester exchange program, students must submit Proof of Financial Support in the amount of approximately $10,500 in order to show proof of funding to support living expenses during the semester abroad. Once this “proof” documentation is submitted to the College, the student will receive an I-20 student visa document with instructions on how to obtain the F1 student visa.
